Secret Swimming Pool Under New Stages ???

UPI The new stage location is rumored to be built over the site of an old High School Gymnasium. If this is true, experts claim that the super-secret swimming pool which was rumored to be under that gymnasium may be intact and in perfect working order! Archaeologists are rushing to the site for further studies. "our understanding of secret school pools may hinge on the results of this find" claimed one expert.

Ask Peyton

Dear Peyton: Do you believe that a first date should kiss you after he takes you home?

Julie from Jersey

Dear Julie: Hell No! That Joker better know how to make breakfast!!

Dear Peyton: I'm shopping for a new car, but I can't decide between a Mercedes or a Porsche. Do you have any suggestions?
Conrad Cash from Covington

Dear Conrad: I'm actually quite an expert at evaluating cars, y'know horsepower, speed, legroom, that kind of information. Tell you what, why don't you pick me up around 8:00p tonight in the Mercedes and I'll help you decide! Or just mail me the keys....

Peyton's Beauty Tip: Redheads have real fun, so my advice for today is go to your favorite beauty shop and have them color that hair red!! Next Week: Getting that man to notice you, or, Yes I'm not wearing anything!

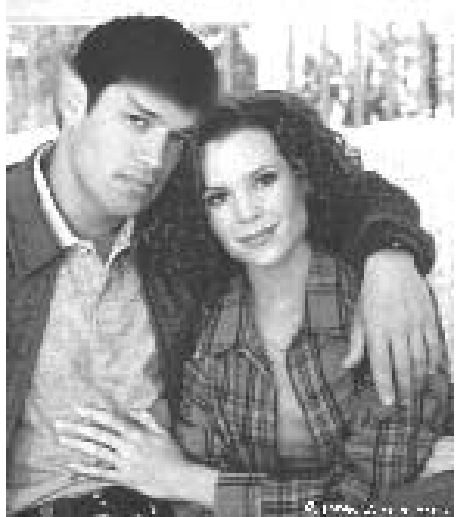

Crossover Planned ↻

In an effort to boost ratings and encourage audiences to experience shows they normally don't watch, the Warner Brothers network has initiated a series of character "crossovers" to occur during the fall sweeps. Watch for Pinky, of "Pinky & the Brain" to show up on the set sometime this Summer. Please watch your step, we cannot afford to injure Mr. Pinky. This means you, Darwin.

Have You Heard??

Apparently those sightings this summer were REAL, because LowTide has just learned that David Gail did spend the Summer as a Rastafarian! It seems that David "just wanted to see what all the hubbub was about". Now LowTide can safely report that David has given up his Jamaican roots and decided to spend more time on his one true love, StarTrek. At the time LowTide was going to press, David and fellow actress Robyn Lively were said to be building Georgia's first 24hour Star Trek Coffee House. David naturally turned to Ms. Lively because of her well known background in the scientific research community specializing in coffee beans. "Beans are my life," explained an obviously emotional Robyn. "Live long and prosper," echoed a very supportive young Mr. Gail. Words we may all live by indeed. Bravo Kids, bravo.....

Hello and welcome back to our second season of Savannah. MY name is Bob Enwieve the new editor of the Official Newsletter of the Savannah Cast and Crew Fan Club. I hope You like the new look of the newsletter this Year, we've spent every moment of the hiatus perfecting the look of LowTide. But we're not satisfied. We want

You to tell us the kinds of things You'd like to see in LowTide. I'll do my best to accomodate Your wishes.

I hope that all of You have had a safe and happy hiatus and have returned ready to turn out another season of "state-of-the-art-trash" as the show has been called.

As Your new editor, I'd like to outline some changes to the newsletter You'll be seeing in the next few months. First, in the next issue we'll find out what some of You did during the hiatus. Please feel free to write in to express Your opinions on current events. We also hope to start a column where You can vent Your complaints, or make pithy observations on the state of film-making in America. The want ads are there to help You make a love connection, or to sell Your bass boat. And please, please, please send me e-mail at BobEnwieve@aol.com
